The committee on city property and the city solicitor have been instructed to go before the Board of County Supervisors at its next meeting and ask that the penalties be remitted.

The general opinion prevails in the city that this little deal was pulled through in the interest of the old company for fear that the supreme court would uphold the decision of the district court and in this event the old company in a few years would have been without a franchise. The this is The funeral of Dyar Lloyd, the infant the inner truth of the deal is borne out by the fact that the officers of the Suburba company did not ask the city council for these additional rights until after Banke Wattles had bought a controlling intere

Another significant fact pointing the absorption by the old company of th Suburban company is that all the employe of the latter have been given their tin checks and their places filled with employe of the old motor company. This, it argued would not have taken place ha there been simply a traffic agreement between the two companies. With these facts now staring them in the face the people of Council Bluffs are generally of the opinion that the old company has absorbed the new one and that the result of Thursday's meeting will show this to be the case.

GOES AHEAD WITH HIGH SCHOOL

chool Hor d Declines to Rescind Its Se ection of a Site The Board of Education, at its meeting ast night, failed to rescind its action selecting the old High school grounds for the location of the new High school, but decided to make the necessary preparations for the erection of the building. On the motion of Member Swaine, the board will meet as a committee of the whole this afternoon and inspect the grounds for the from the Woman's Christian Association purpose of determining what modification of the original plans of the new school house, if any, will be necessary. The result of this investigation will determine whether the board will readvertise for bids or select one of the bids submitted at the time it was planned to erect the school on the Washington avenue site. At that time the ontract was awarded to George F. Hughes on his bid of $57,700, conditionally on the board's action in selecting the Oakland avenight that its action having been reversed the contract was no longer binding on either party. The matter was brought up by Member Stewart at an early stage of the meeting. who auggested that something ought to be done towards putting up the new High school. Member Swaine at once moved that the board proceed to select plans or modify the plans the board already had for the erection of a High school on Glen avenue. This brought Member Sargent to his feet with a protest against building the school there. He said it would be useless for the board to attempt to build it on the old High school grounds, as injunction proceedings, he had been informed, would be at once brought to restrain the erection of the new school there. For his part, he said he believed it was very doubtful if the board had any right or authority to build the school in face of the proposition that had

The resignation of Miss Jennie Pile, teacher in the Washington avenue school, who last week became Mrs. Gray, was received and accepted. The matter of filling the vacancy was left with the teachers' ommittee to report. Member Cooper, chairman of the finance ommittee, brought up the matter of fixing

> This morning Director Sage of the Iowa weather and crop service issued his bulletin for the week with regard to the condition of the crops. It follows:

Iowa Crop Report.

The average temperature of the past week was from 2 to 4 degrees below normal, and there was less than the usual amount of sunshine. Except in portions of the southeast district the soil has been thoroughly saturated with heavy showers from the 14th to the 19th. Harvest operations have been retarded by wet weather and cloudiness, and in the northern and western districts considerable local damage resulted to hay and small grain. The benefits resulting from these copious rains, however, very greatly exceed the losses caused by excess. Corn is steadily advancing, giving promise of more than an average yield. The pastures are fresh and succulent as in early June. The aftermath of the meadows promises to recoup the losses sustained in the hay harvest, and vegetation generally is unusually green and vigorous for the mid-summer period. The markets are abundantly supplied with early apples, but the winter apple crop is likely to fall considerably short of the promise during the blooming period.

H. Cullen, chief counsel bury, who swore he saw a body in Jester's for the defendant, petitioned the court as

"Now at the close of all of the evidence on the part of the state comes the defendant had seen. and prays the court to instruct the jury that under the evidence and indictment this case you will find the defendant not guilty."

The petition was promptly overruled and the case must be continued. Captain Julius Dunn, 70 years old, residing near Moberly, the High school off the hill and now the board seemed determined to build the new one there.

Swaine said the hill on High School avenue could be cut down and a very easy grade made. For his part he would stand by putting the school on the old site, as every time they had tried to select another location they had been frustrated.

Swaine brought up his motion again, adding the High school off the hill and now the board seemed determined to build the new one there.

vicinity. Captain Dunn's testimony was not weakened on cross-examination. Court adjourned until 1:30, when the defense will present its side of the case. Fifteen minutes after the state had closed Alexander Jester made the following state-

"Now that the state has closed I want to say that I have no ill feelings toward any witness who has testified against me, not even old Mr. Gates. I have been persecuted by the Pinkerton detectives and John W. Gates' money, but I expect to come out on top and live the rest of my days in peace, also die in peace. I have heard some remarkable misstatements from the witness stand, and am surprised at some of my relatives who have testified against me, but I still say I have no hard feelings against any one. I am feeling in good spirits, but my health is not good." The first witness for the defense, ex-Attorney General Daniel H. McIntyre, of Mexico, Mo., testified that he never knew W. S. Shrewsbury, one of the witnesses for the state. The defense is making an efwagon while he was passing east of Middlegrove, and that he (Shrewsbury) told McIntyre and other persons about what he
